ENTRY & GALLERY

KD has designed the entry and gallery to be an inspiring, bold space to set the tone for the home's interior. The entry design is meant to be welcoming and collected, using a rich palette and variety of textures to make the space feel private and warm. The graphic elements add personality and interest to the walls, while one of a kind stone and metal fixtures create an ambient glow among the space. The gallery is a continuation of the impactful main entrance, where the focus was designing a unique space which connects the living and dining room. The gallery is grounded with a console and linear suspended fixture, while pops of color and wall decor finish the space.

LIVING ROOM

nspired by the effortlessly elegant layout of the space, the living room design reflects the architecture's traditional European flair while simultaneously cultivating a warm and sophisticated mood. Subdued colors, juxtaposed textures, and collected elements are masterfully woven together. Every piece of furniture is placed as a sculptural element, with each one a work of art in its own right. The multipurpose layout of the space lends itself to a variety of uses while the ambience embodies an openness to expression, merging ancient with modern and rough with luxurious. Much like the living space in a European country manor house, the elements are international, timeless, unusual, and approachable. The hearth reveals itself as the natural center and heartbeat of the home.

CONSERVATORY DEN

he conservatory den is a sumptuous yet relaxed space inspired by the gardens beyond while cultivating interest, comfort and warmth indoors. A custom designed daybed clad in a lush green silk velvet, recalls the foliage beyond and provides a chic vantage point from which to watch TV or admire the view. Surrounded by cream textured walls and shimmering draperies, an artist created marble and bronze table sourced from Art Basel in Miami, pulls together a rich palette of blues and greens. A vintage chandelier and sconces provide a balance of old with new bringing vitality into this historic home.

y inspiration for the dining room of this Howard Van Doren Shaw designed home comes from his elegant country home aesthetic. Beautiful architecture harmoniously situated in a tranquil garden setting creates a relaxed elegance. Fabric-adorned walls, linen-printed drapery treatments and vintage chippendale-style rattan chairs add warmth and a more casual feel to the space. Modern features including a lacquered ceiling, Big Bloom photograph and an Italian chandelier are juxtaposed with traditional French furnishings and a hand-painted chinoiserie framed wallpaper panel, to create interest and an understated elegance. I chose these elements to honor Shaw's unique ability to have the interior and exterior spaces play off one another, creating a timeless room that is inviting and beautiful.

FAMILY ROOM

he Family Room of the past is far from the norm of today's modern family space. Probably used as a sunroom for tea, light meals, or cocktails for the original owners, this space has been retrofitted to today's lifestyle. We celebrate the light and the views, softening the room with sheer drapery panels, setting the scene for a relaxing visual theme.

The space is embraced by a new ceiling treatment with an appropriately selected Arts and Crafts-styled contemporary wall covering panel, and new iron chandelier. Furniture upholstered in luxurious outdoor fabric sets the comfort level for this indoor/outdoor space, offering protection from sun and pets. The room is warmed with a vintage Swedish oil painting, an old-flavored wool carpet, and multi-level coffee table for books and objects. A complementary color scheme to the exterior palette of the home provides a comfortable blend between the interior and exterior experience.

KITCHEN & OFFICE NOOK

he designers' vision for the kitchen was to enhance an already beautiful space. By painting the ceiling a high-gloss white and updating the light fixtures, the room instantly gains height and brightness. Staging the room with elements you'd find in a working French kitchen, the room's purpose becomes clear – this is a place to gather and enjoy family and friends.

The office nook's tent-like feel was accomplished by upholstering the walls in a black and white ticking stripe bordered with nail-head trim. The same fabric was used on the built in bench cushion with a fun paprika and white fringe.

Schumacher's iconic "Citrus Garden" print on accent pieces was the perfect companion to this bright, cheerful space. The urchin-like light fixture adds a modern touch, while the focal point is no doubt the whimsical photographs by Spanish photographer Miguel Vallinas.

SITTING ROOM

he sitting area adjacent to the kitchen is a cozy nook perfect for a morning cup of coffee, or an evening cocktail. A soft inviting color palette of aubergine, blue and cream welcomes one to sit down and enjoy a leisurely start, or break, from the day. The dramatic canvas mural of a country scene becomes a beautiful focal point of the room. The couture window treatments, overseen by former Christina Dior designer Nicolas Chambeyron, were hand embroidered in Germany by Holland and Sherry. With the addition of a hidden bar behind the existing cabinetry, the room now serves as an extension of the kitchen's entertaining space.

MASTER BEDROOM

In our hectic world, our master bedroom is a safe-haven, offering respite at the beginning and end of each day. It is a space of calm to check in and check out with your own past, present and future. It is all about YOU.

Centering the bed in the middle of the room was intentional, creating a vortex for dreams and imagination. The artwork is a collaboration with three Chicago artists: Sally Ko, Lynn Basa and Judi Melnick. Sally's series of paintings from light to dark are evocative of the evolution of a dream. The color palette is one of white, pale grays, warm neutrals with hints of cinnamon, midnight blue, black and yellow. Uber textural, including a mix of gold and silver metals, wood, horsehair, linen, wool, acrylic and raffia mixed with a bit of crystals and pearls. Neither too masculine nor feminine, it is relaxed, polished, comfortable and refined.

MASTER SITTING ROOM & CLOSET

he sitting room off the master suite was transformed into a meditation space. A "room of one's own" where the soul and spirit are nurtured and supported. We created a room, a cocoon, a space, an oasis where bits and pieces of life are collected and assembled into a biography...a travelogue of where you've been, where you are and where you hope to go. It is part intimate story combined with a world of possibility...it is wholly and uniquely you.

The space is designed to feed your senses . . . tactile, rough, soft, and opulent. A layered expression of contrasts that get your attention. What makes you happy, what makes you think and to what places do you aspire.

GIRL'S BEDROOM

his room was designed for a girl on the brink of doing great things. We envisioned our young client to be transitioning from her younger years to her late elementary school years. She has a passion for color and isn't afraid to show it. We incorporated bold colors and patterns, but chose to keep the wall color neutral to showcase these bright selections. A wonderful focal point is the room's inviting window seat, a perfect spot for reading or doing homework. The attached bathroom covered in bumble bees lends a whimsical feel to this space. She is inspired by strong women and we have incorporated them in the artwork. Every girl should dream big and feel strong. We think this room encompasses that belief.

GIRL'S SITTING ROOM

he Sitting Room created the perfect opportunity to bring the outdoors inside; to merge through color, pattern and finishes, the interior of the home and majestic grounds surrounding the house. This room feels like a natural extension of the lush greenery and historic elm tree beyond the window. The goal was to create a special, quiet space in the house to ponder, read and reflect in the glow of natural sunlight. The stucco walls were paneled with wood and then mirror-lacquered in an inviting olive green, This backdrop highlights the balanced mix of antique and contemporary pieces - a sleek linen sofa, an antique bronze bamboo coffee table and a chandelier representing Wendy's signature nod to contemporary French design. Paying homage to the home's English heritage, a traditional floral linen covers a petite Louis-style chair. An antique Maison Jansen desk sits alongside the window to create additional functionality in the small space as a spot to sit and write.

TEENAGE BOY'S ROOM

pon walking into the Teenage Boy's Room and hearing Nirvana on the record player, you know you're no longer in the parents' wing. A tree house style bed suspended by rope solidifies this notion. It's not just any teenager though; this boy is a true sophisticate in the making. At the foot of his bed sits a bone inlay bench Sarah Vaile stumbled upon in India. A Stark faux bois rug bound in imitation leather covers the floor and Phillip Jeffries "Nailed It" Manila hemp adorns the walls. Equal parts sophisticate and adventurer, a faux deer head sits smack in the middle of the room, adjacent to a modern Native American art piece over the desk. Not to be forgotten though, it is a teenager who sleeps here. In case the black ceiling doesn't give it away, a retro rattan chair serves as a remind that this room is for 18 and under.

his mudroom is home to much more than just coats and boots! The plentiful natural light of the space fosters a lush indoor green wall of edible plants and spices around every window. Latin names of the herbs and black and white photos style this space. Pots containing lavender, strawberry, and mint plants populate the surfaces along the perimeter of the room. The walls themselves harmonize with the green and gray tiled floor.

COACH HOUSE ENTRY & KITCHEN

he Coach House Entry and Kitchen have been conceived as the perfect treetop getaway. Using a Scandinavian sensibility, the spaces are marked by minimalism, neutral colors and simple forms. The original wood floors have been retained for their warmth and pops of black add just the right amount of contrast. Original art infuses the space with a hint of color and humor.

COACH HOUSE SOLARIUM

s you enter this garden solarium, you are greeted by a lovely tall bronze girl sculpture by artist Tom Corbin. The three walls of charming cottage style windows, overlooking the beautiful gardens provide a stunning view. Framed moldings were added to heighten the charm. An all white room is the ideal background to enrich the large blue embroidered flower draperies, and enhance the porcelain collection, with whimsical African animals playfully reaching out in relief. The creative custom silver tree branch style chandelier with clear glass flower blossoms, sparkles in day and evening light. The room's highlight is the plush deep blue rug with its massive elegant tiger figure which plays off of the porcelain animal figures. The glass top table and the magnificent acrylic Klismos style pair of chairs provides the flexible space for a desk or a casual dining table for two. "A heavenly experience."

COACH HOUSE LIVING ROOM

he Coach House Living Room concept grew from looking out the windows on a cloudy November day, imagining what it would be like to be "up there" among the trees as they were green and full of leaves. Growing up in Sweden, I was immersed in vivid patterns and textiles due to my father's close working relationship with "Katja of Sweden", a great textile and women's clothing designer. The room's furnishings are greatly influenced by Swedish and Austrian architecture and design. This aesthetic mixes not just patterns, but old with new, precious with inexpensive. "If you love it, get it, it will work with what you have."

Josef Franks florals take center stage in our imaginary "tree house". The room's stand-out pieces include a Ca.1940's Swedish sofa upholstered in Franks "Celotocaulis" and a pair of 1940's Danish mohair chairs. "Algue" by Vitra, a sculptural decorative accessory, meanders across walls and hangs down like a veil over the windows. Sculptural freeform wood and black African drum tables reinforce the organic feel of Josef Franks exuberant pattern.

his Coach House Guest Room has an alter ego with a sexy lounge vibe, where guests can do more than just sleep. Charcoal walls envelope the space beautifully while custom plaster millwork adds drama and dimension. The mid-century inspired daybed throws in a twist with shimmery black leather and iron brackets that allow it to "float" in the space. Sheer charcoal panels soften things up, while a custom built-in display case highlights interesting objet d'art. Crystal Bulb pendants from across the pond grace the walls with their royal crest and warm glow. Just below, the Ico Drinks Tables with wax cast bronze bases offer the perfect place to perch your favorite cocktail. Our lovely Queen keeps things from getting too serious with her graffiti covered portrait watching over her loyal subjects. Alexander visitor's experience at this Howard Van Doren masterpiece begins at the grand, walled entrance. Formally clipped hedges and towering arborvitae provide a perfect background to showcase matching decorative urns. Each urn is overflowing with colorful blooming flowers including pansies, erysimum, ranunculus, and grape hyacinth as well as textural elements of branch stems and ivy that are reminiscent of the spring season.

Proceeding up the driveway to the country home's entry court, the limestone rabbit fountain is surrounded with an attractive display of pansies and other spring flowers juxtaposed against a low-clipped boxwood hedge. The elegant water feature culminates in a fountain cap that mimics the fragrant stock (Matthiola), ranunculus and branching arrangement in the entry urns, drawing the eye in and creating a striking expression of Art in Harmony with Nature.

he subtle feel of gravel underfoot in the drive circle creates a calming affect while approaching the front landing. The entry is complimented with a combination of bluestone and granite paving details. Matching planters and boxwood hedges set off the arrival gardens.

A combination of perennial and annual flowers bring color to the entry. Flowering azalea, rhododendron and dense yews create a backdrop for this display. The gardens come to life in the spring as a cornelian cherry comes into flower, while shortly afterwards a magnolia proudly displays it floral show for those arriving at the front door.

he West Patio was revitalized to create an intimate seating and dining area to take advantage of the impressive views of the west lawn and prodigious Elm tree that shades the space all summer long. Inspired by the English Arts and Crafts Style of the home, the patio space is filled with an abundance of romantically-styled plantings. An antique French gate and arbor was added to separate the motor court and patio while an extensive collection of faux bois pieces are juxtaposed with contemporary elements to bring this special space into today's light.

The planting bed that connects the West Patio and the Fire Pit Garden was amended with Cunningham White Rhododendrons to add additional structure and interest to the existing plant palette. Traditional terra cotta containers with clipped boxwood forms, espaliered apple trees, and rhododendron give definition to the fire pit area. Shades of aqua on select planters and the furniture add a refreshing contrast. The seating area is composed of furniture that is easily reconfigurable to accommodate up-close enjoyment of the gas fire feature.

A bluestone stepping stone path was added to connect the fire pit garden with the western edge of the motor court. This new path, which matches the pathway between the west patio and the fire pit, takes one around the old flowering crabapple and past the in-ground trampoline. Whimsical iron-strap spheres romp in the turf within this area.

SUNKEN GARDEN & BLUESTONE PATIO

ariani Landscape Architecture, Alessandra Branca and Molly Flavin have teamed to design, install, furnish and decorate the Sunken Garden and Bluestone Patio leading to the expansive backyard featuring two very special Elm trees, thought to be the oldest in Lake Forest. The landscape design complements the classic Howard Van Doren Shaw architecture. The garden definition is created by a traditional boxwood parterre that is softened by the use of billowing herbaceous varieties. The color palette was purposely kept simple to allow the space to feel like a relaxing backyard retreat.

Alessandra Branca brings her considerable talents to planning and furnishing the large patio space with a selection of pieces that will interact with the home and landscape designs. Alessandra has created different "rooms" in the area in her signature style that combines character and simplicity, bringing life to the space for all to enjoy.

In a project like this, the details are so important and Molly Flavin has that certain touch in finishing off the area with her timeless floral arrangements providing the last piece of the puzzle in this wonderful collaboration.
